Davis Behavioral Health re-affirms its commitment to treatment services that are equitable and inclusive. In all aspects of its operations and at all levels of the organization, Davis Behavioral Health works to ensure that there is no discrimination based on ethnicity, language, race, age, ability, sex, sexual or gender identity, sexual orientation, family status, immigrant or refugee status.

Mental Health Eligibility Criteria

Davis Behavioral Health determines eligibility of services based on the county of residence. DBH provides services to all residents of Davis County regardless of their ability to pay. At times, DBH may provide services to residents of other counties as capacity allows (This does not include Medicaid capitated residents of other counties). Services are provided to those with severe and/or persistent mental illness or severe emotional disturbance (SMI/SED) and those with non-SMI/SED conditions. Some non-SMI/SED individuals may be referred to other community providers depending on DBH capacity.

Davis Behavioral Health provides services to individuals and families enrolled in Medicaid, commercial insurance, and those who are uninsured and underinsured.

Substance Use Disorder Eligibility Criteria

Substance use disorder eligibility is based on the severity of treatment needs within a context of limited capacity. Priority will be given to pregnant women, women with dependent children, intravenous drug users, and county residents. Contractual obligations are also honored. Federally mandated set-asides and requirements of the Utah Office of Substance Abuse and Mental Health are followed.

Davis Behavioral Health provides services to individuals and families enrolled in Medicaid, and commercial insurance and who are uninsured and underinsured.
